

HYPERALLERGIC

Your Concise New York Art Guide for December 2021

Your list of must-see, fun, insightful, and very New York art events this month.

by Cassie Packard

Installation view, Gerald Jackson, Gordon Robichaux, New York, 2021 (courtesy of the artist and Gordon Robichaux; photo by Ryan Page)

When: through January 9

Where: Gordon Robichaux (41 Union Square West, #925 and #907, Union Square, Manhattan)

Arriving on the heels of exhibitions at White Columns and Wilmer Jennings Gallery-Kenkeleba, Gordon Robichaux's Gerald Jackson rounds off a series of three New York City shows dedicated to the oeuvre of the octogenarian artist, poet, and performer. The New Jersey-based artist, who emerged in New York's downtown scene in the mid-1960s, offers up paintings that explore the spiritual dimensions of color, especially blue and green; found object sculptures featuring globes perched atop teapots and figurines haloed with gleaming CDs; and appropriated images that have been reproduced and subsequently altered with chalk, pastel, watercolor, and paint.

Cassie Packard, "Your Concise New York Art Guide for January 2021." Hyperallergic (November 30, 2021), accessed online.