When Sam Parker and Madeline Hollander's son was six months old, he was diagnosed with a rare genetic disease called SELENON-related myopathy, which has no cure. They organized Wishing Well, a benefit exhibition from which 100% of the proceeds will go towards funding for gene therapy research in hopes of finding a cure for the disease. The exhibition includes the work of over 60 emerging and established artists including Kelly Akashi, Melvino Garretti, Ruby Neri, Laura Owens, Howardena Pindell, Sterling Ruby, and many more.
